

AN IC DAY

ALESSIO CHIERICO

As a student of Interface Culture I spend most of my time in the department every day. The actions and the movements are very repetitive and they are a big part of my routine in Linz. Considering the architectural structure of the department, in which all the rooms are spreading along a hallway, I use to walk very often in this space. The hallway can't be considered a real social space, but a transit space.

In every room I often meet others students, but it's possible that I do not meet them for the whole day. "an IC day" aims to display my personal student life experience in the department. The data has been collected to analyze different aspect of my time in the department. The main focus of the project is "how many times I change place?" and "how often, how much I walk in the hallway, and who I met more often, and where.
